coopersville high school

Coopersville High School, pictured above, is the school where many of us spent four very wonderful years. Four years of high school, as you look ahead when you are very young, seems like an eternity. All too soon, however, they pass. The halls of Coopersville High will echo with our footsteps for many years; they mingle with those who have gone on before us and with those who are yet to come.

We, the members of the 1967 ZENITH Staff, are proud to present to you our yearbook.
Walk with us now through the footsteps of time to relive the happenings of the past year.
Let us help to keep alive forever your memories of the people and events of 1966-67.

dedication

No longer with us as a full time teacher is Genevieve Taylor. Many footsteps have been guided into the right paths by her untiring devotion to her duty and her love for young people. Though retired, she substitutes much of the time, unwilling to be "put on the shelf." To Mrs. Taylor, teacher and friend supreme, we dedicate the 1967 ZENITH.

Allen G. Robinson, Superintendent

After eighteen years of service to our school and community, Mr. Allen G. Robinson has left for semi-retirement. He and his wife, Ruth, will be teaching in a mission school in the Philippines. In recognition of his diligent and excellent service, the Board of Education climaxed his year here by naming our athletic field the Allen G. Robinson Field. We of the annual staff thank him for a job well done and wish him well in his new venture.

administration

Frederick Schmidt, Acting Superintendent

Replacing Mr. Robinson until July first will be Mr. Schmidt. He has already proved his capabilities while serving as assistant superintendent. Our good wishes go with him as he finishes the year as superintendent and also as he makes his plans for the future.

Stanley Kitch, Principal

Making his first imprints upon Coopersville High School this year was Mr. Stanley Kitch. In his first year here we realize Mr. Kitch encountered many problems, but he learned how to cope successfully with them. With the co-operation of the students we know he will continue to do a great job here at C.H.S. We wish him luck as he travels the new pathways of our school.

in memoriam

Graduation was touched with sadness for the class of '67 because three of the boys who would have graduated with them no longer walked among us. Tragedy in the form of a car accident took the lives of Larry Kwekel and Louis Peck, and Roger Overmeyer, seemingly in perfect health, suddenly collapsed while preparing for a pep assembly. We of the ZENITH Staff pay tribute to these fine young men.

Lives of the students of Coopersville High have again been enriched through association with our exchange students. Germany holds a warm place in our hearts because Carola Ruhle has smiled her way into the lives of many of us. Sweden is no longer just a place on the map because of becoming closely acquainted with Anders Nilsson. And our Latin-American neighbors have become our Latin-American friends because of Christina Jobke, Argentinean with the personality plus. We hope that as they return to their own countries, they will carry with them the good wishes for continued success and the desire for warm and friendly relationships between our beloved America and their own respective nations.

class history

As freshmen, remember...

...how suddenly short we felt our first day of high school?
...the bewilderment of numbers-on-halls, lockers, room doors?
...the toilet-paper wrapping contest at our first class party?
...feeling sorry for poor David Copperfield?

In our sophomore year, remember...

...how people looked at us as we ran around mumbling "Friends, Romans, Countrymen..."?
...the excited cry, "LEMME SEE YOUR RING!"?
...forgetting to check the rear-view mirror on the final Driver's Education road test?
...chasing that finky salamander around the school pond an hour for biology class?

From our junior year we have so much to remember...

...people groaning, "not again!"? when we knocked on their doors selling something more for the junior class
...the scared bunch of amateur actors and actresses on junior play night
...wondering if we would ever get those chandeliers to stay tied to the gym ceiling
...the pride we felt as the seniors grudgingly admitted we'd put on a "d prom"

...sophomores, we remember...

...the first-prize float in the Home-coming parade
...arguing over what to wear for the homecoming pictures
...the gown measurements, graduation announcements, so many decisions
...the roll of paper that meant

Preparing for the big event, the Prom, has made the juniors very busy this year. They sponsored many successful dances, some with live music.

They sold all-occasion cards, candy, and sponsored a concession stand at the Seaway Choral Festival.

An enjoyable comedy, "Papa Was a Preacher," was presented as the junior play.

It has been said that the formula for success is 99% perspiration and 1% inspiration. There is a price to pay to become a successful basketball player. This price is physical conditioning, proper attitude, constant practice, courage, and a will to succeed. Congratulations to the team and their coach, Mr. Veldman, for a fine season.

varsity

With an unimpressive record of wins and losses, our varsity basketball team was in there fighting every minute of every game. John Unger, Randy Thomas, and Dave Veeneman show real promise for better things to come next year and the team as a whole displayed a togetherness and sportsmanship that spoke well for our school at all times. Congratulations to coach and team.

Of championship material, our girls' varsity basketball team captured the coveted championship and its accompanying trophy this year. The team record was 6 wins and 2 losses. The team worked together like the parts of well-oiled machinery. Experience and balanced scoring by several players were two of the team's outstanding assets. Congratulations girls and Coach Streeter.

This year's annual staff tried to make 67's ZENITH really different. As a result, many discussions were held over theme, colors, materials, pictures, etc. Finally, under the guidance of our able advisor, Mr. Boeskool, we made our selections. Now we proudly present to you the 1967 ZENITH.

student council

Showing responsibility, efficiency, ship, the REL party commanded the Student Council this year. They continued the parking lot policy, registering cars, and making regular patrols.

Several enjoyable assemblies were presented by the Student Council. They continued to sponsor the book store and put on a talent show to sponsor the summer exchange students from our school.

The Student Council gave a helping hand to the Bronco Beat and sponsored a chili supper to raise funds for football jerseys.

Officers for the years were:

|                             |                    |

| Second Councilman . . . . . | Mary Sue Posthumus |

Mary Sue Posthumus gives the calendar report at a Student Council meeting.

Margaret Brown and Lon Frazier help get ready for a fudge sale.

Honor Society's ideals---leadership, scholarship, character, and service--- were truly demonstrated this year by the many accomplishments they made.

New ideas were put into effect. The Kaleidoscope, a fine arts book composed of art and literary works from the student body, was published and sold. A Christmas party was held, and the cafeteria was beautifully decorated. A fashion show and tea was held in the spring. The Honor Society also sold fudge to raise money. Attractive posters were put up around the school by members throughout the year. At the meetings members heard speakers from the school and community.

The officers were:

|                          |                  |
|--------------------------|------------------|
| President . . . . .      | John Bush        |

pep club

Pep Club has given a charge to school spirit this year. They have presented pep assemblies before home games, run the concession stand during football season, and made cookies for the girls' basketball games.

For the Homecoming the Pep Club did a fine job on the pep rally and the Homecoming Dance.

Newly put into effect this year were work nights, regular monthly meetings, and a new constitution. The Pep Club also sponsored an activity night with the Varsity Club, and pledged two-hundred dollars toward new football uniforms.

The new elected officers are:

|                          |              |
|--------------------------|--------------|
| President . . . . .      | Mary Bergsma |
| Vice-President . . . . . | Marva Pratt  |
| Secretary . . . . .      | Susie Tibbe  |
| Treasurer . . . . .      | Jane Bush    |
| Advisor . . . . .        | Miss Bouwman |

Jan Byrne and Peggy Lampe work on posters to promote school spirit.

Students watch as Ron Klein, Mark Hudleson, Jim Wright, and Bob Frazier dance around the "C" for initiation.

All varsity letter winners are invited to join the Varsity Club. Passing the initiation is another thing! This year's was really weird and held in secret.

The club sponsored a dance, and held a doughnut sale for money-raising projects.

For service projects they took tickets at the basketball games, gave Christmas corsages to the office help, and pledged two-hundred dollars toward varsity football jerseys.

Officers for the year were:

|                          |               |
|--------------------------|---------------|
| President . . . . .      | Mike Crouse   |

future business leaders of america

Newly formed this year, but already a growing club is the FBLA- Future Business Leaders of America.

The purpose of the club is to develop mutual understanding and cooperation between business leaders and community.

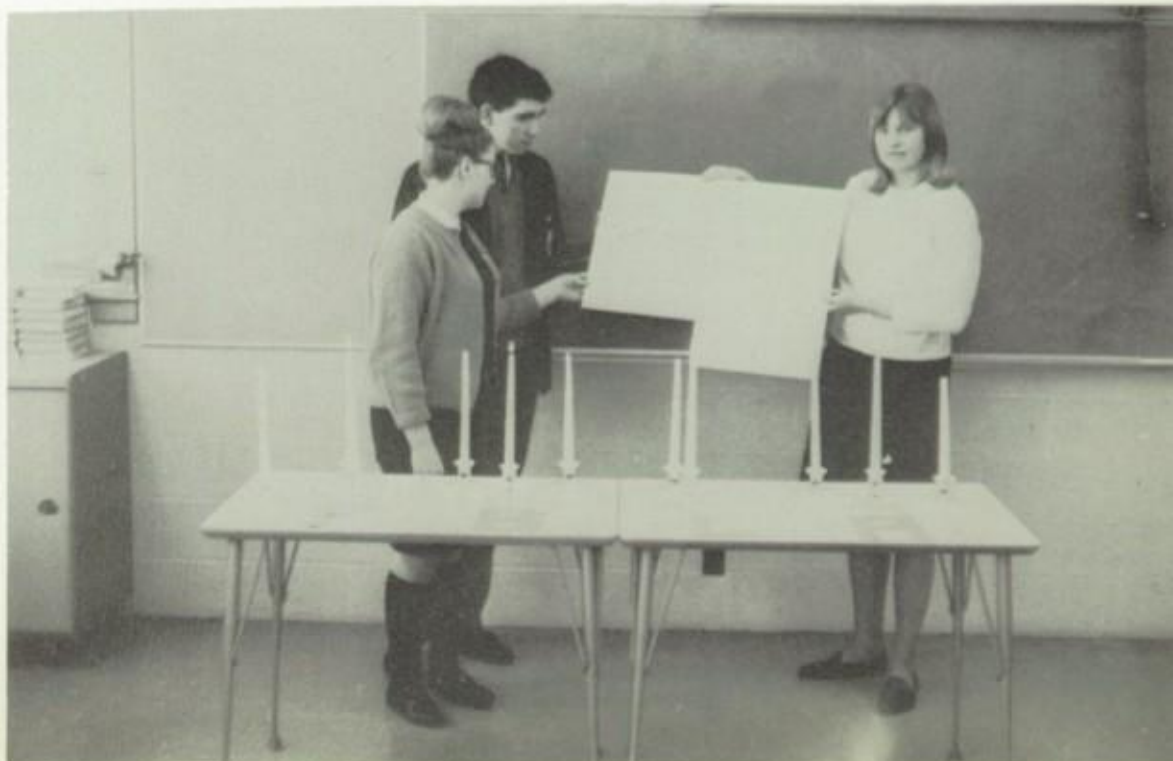

The club received its national charter in January. To raise money the club has sold fudge and had a chili supper.

As a service project the individual members assisted teachers by typing, correcting papers, and many other services. A delegation was sent to the state convention at Cadillac in the spring.

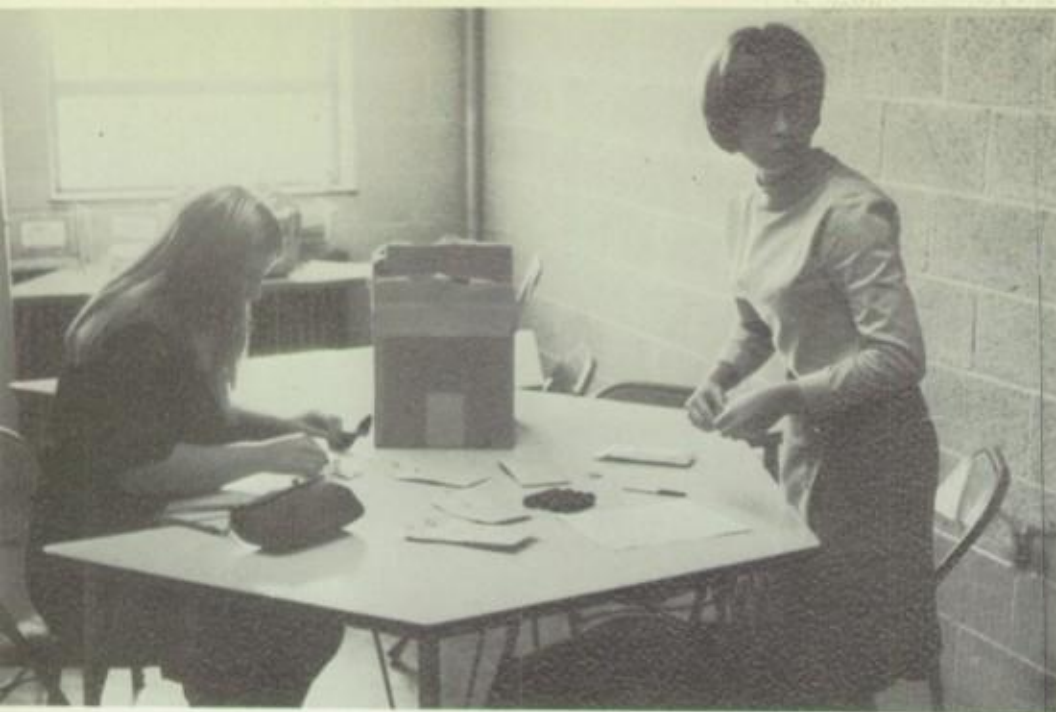

Officers for the year were:

|                          |                  |
|--------------------------|------------------|
| President . . . . .      | Sharon Hambleton |

| Advisors . . . . .       | Mrs. Randall     |
|                          | Mr. McGarey      |

Jim Smith, Ellen Ripka, and Sandy Boerman present the new FBLA charter to the club.

Arlene Hecksel and Sally Sandiford count money in an effort to get out of the red.

The Bronco Beat staff, with the helpful assistance of their advisor, Mr. VanEpps, strives to put out an issue of the school newspaper every two weeks. Newly formed in the last year, the members of this organization learned reporting, layout, photography, editing, proofreading, and working together for a common cause. This was done largely by trial and error, since there was no scheduled journalism class, and the staff had to work in their spare time.

The group took a field trip to Rogers Printing Company, where the Bronco Beat is printed. They also put on several dances and made an informative bulletin board of the steps in a newspaper printing. Congratulations to the staff and their advisor for a fine paper.

future nurses

Future Nurses' Club is designed to interest students in nursing and medical careers. This year they invited guest speakers to tell of various aspects of nursing. They took several field trips. Blodgett Hospital was toured, and a fall rally was attended at Mount Mercy. The club also contributed to the community by Christmas caroling at the County Infirmary.

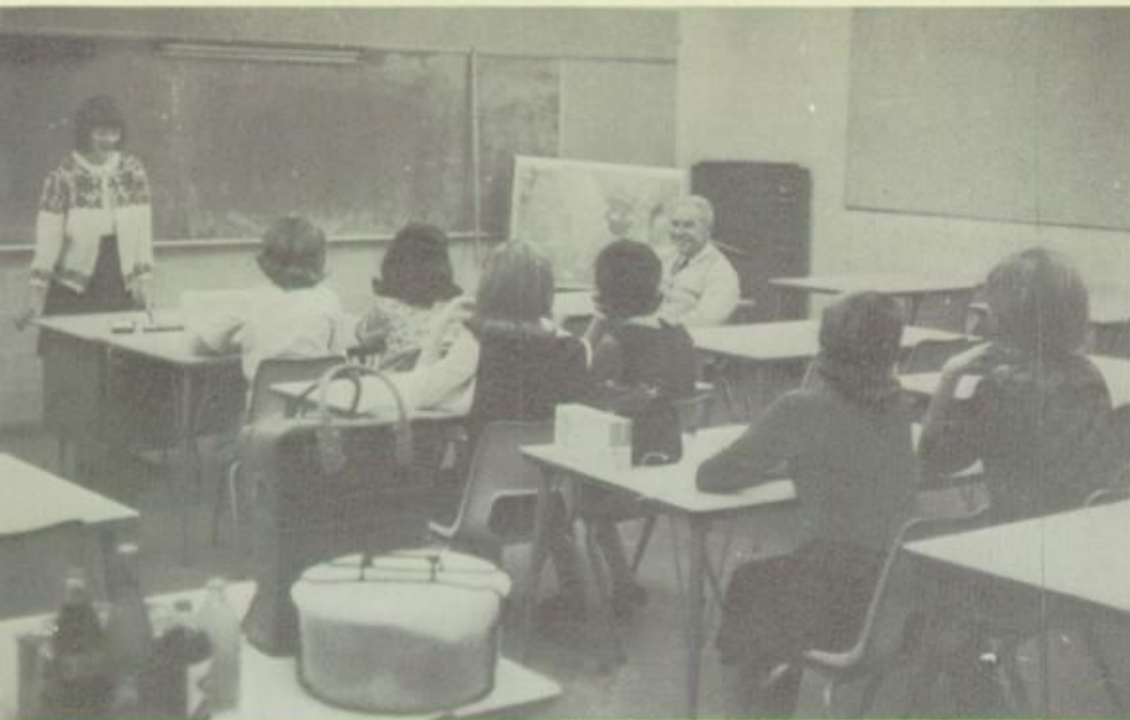

The officers for this year were:

Members of the debate team look over their notes for an up-coming debate.

"Resolved: that foreign aid should be limited to non-military assistance."

This was the topic our Debate Team dealt with this year. Under Mr. Busman's fine coaching, the team did very well.

The final score resulted in six wins and two losses. The team placed second in the Seaway Conference.

future farmers of america

Community service projects, county fair exhibits, FFA Week, the state convention... these are just a few of the many activities of the Future Farmers of America participated in this year. They hosted and participated in seven school district leadership contests. They competed against other FFA chapters and basketball teams. In the school they held a parent-son banquet, raised group crop projects on the school land laboratory, and made a clever Homecoming float.

To raise money, the club held cider sales after the football games, sold "Slow Moving Vehicle" signs, and had their annual garden seed sale.

Mr. Busman points out the principal ideas of Rotary to the Junior Rotarians.

Every Wednesday noon ten high school senior boys met with senior Rotary members to become acquainted with the various workings of Rotary.

The club sponsored a car wash this year. They purchased a set of flags of all nations for the Senior Rotary. For a service project the boys helped pre-teen youngsters organize activities in the junior high on Saturday afternoons.

gymnastics club

Really getting into gear this year has been the Gymnastics Club. They purchased new uniforms and various equipment including a balance beam and parallel bars. The club presented four programs that demonstrated their physical agility, coordination, and strength. The first was given during half-time of a girls' basketball game; one was given to the athletic boosters; and another to their own parents. Last, a very good assembly was presented to the student body. The only officer is Virginia Timmerman and Mr. Kemme is the advisor.

Gymnastics Club members practice for their performance before the athletic boosters.

Math Club members work diligently on a problem.

Developing mental dexterity for mathematics is the purpose of the Math Club. This year, automation moved in as computer programming was studied. The members also worked with modern math. There were no officers, but all the math teachers served as advisors.

With ninety-six members this year's band was the largest in the history of C.H.S. The band gave fine performances at the home football games and at their concerts. They attended Band Day at Michigan State University.

As usual, the band received many honors. The State Band Directors Association invited our band to perform for the Midwest Conference at the University of Michigan.

"7 in '67" was the battle cry the band took to the District Band Festival. It proved to be prophetic because for the seventh consecutive year they got straight First Division Ratings.

The band also attended the state festival and made a record of their performances to sell to the community.

Highways leading to everywhere beckon the class of 1967. The footsteps we have already implanted in the halls of this high school have pointed us in the direction our footsteps will go. Unlimited opportunities are ours. Boundless horizons invite us, too, to leave our "footprints in the sands of time."

New links will forge the chain of memory, but the thoughts we hold of friendships made, of knowledge gained, of joys we've shared, of triumphs and disappointments; these links in memory's chain will be ours to cherish forever. Thus, wherever we go, whatever we become, the foundations we laid and the parts of our completed education here preserved will serve as a nostalgic reminder of the days we walked the corridors of C'ville--linking our footsteps to those of past generations and those of generations yet to come.

West Michigan's highways are noted for their scenic beauty. Motorists will find many "turn off" vantage points for leisurely enjoyment of unusual views of inland lakes, Lake Michigan and rivers.

Buck,
We sure had a lot of fun in the field working for oil. I have been a good buck
